Stars and Stripes Fly Over Manila American First Army is 13 Miles Inside Germany

Reported to Have Broken Through Last of Double Rows of Defense

PARIS, Feb. 5.—(P)—American tanks and French Moroccan mountain troops cut the Colmar pocket in two today, trapping elements of perhaps three German divisions in the Vosges mountains south of Strasbourg.

American tanks of Maj. Gen. Frank W. Milburn's 21st corps crashed down from south of Colmar while the Moroccans advanced from north of Mulhouse in a combined gain of eight miles. The pocket, reduced to less than 200 square miles by midnight, was virtually erased and the threat to Strasbourg from the south was erased.

In the center of the western front where the American First army has penetrated the Siegfried line, infantry captured one of the Roer river headwater dams and won high ground controlling another.

The Americans were fighting 13 miles inside Germany in the Schnee-Eifel-Snow Mountain—and were within a mile of Gemund and Schielden, Siegfried line bastions at the eastern edge of the last west wall fortifications. Battle dispatches said the line had been broken clear through between the German towns at a point 28 miles from the Rhine city of Bonn and 16 from the communications hub of Euskirchen.

As the First army hacked away at the last concrete zone of the double Siegfried line, the Third army just south drove a mile and a half into the single belt defenses against only mediocre resistance. The Third was six miles in Germany and three and a half from Prum, a Siegfried fortress.

As many as 10,000 Germans were perhaps doomed by the severance of the Colmar pocket. Maj. Gen. Roderick Allen's 12th Helicopter division linked up with the Fourth Moroccan Mountain division of the French First corps this morning at Rouffach, midway between Colmar and Cernay.

West of the cutoff was a collapsing German circle roughly 15 miles across. To the east, the Germans were jammed into a box against the Rhine about ten miles wide and extending 19 miles along the Rhine from besieged Neufbrisch to a point east of Mulhouse.

The biggest dam is at Hanfeld, two or three miles ahead of American lines. The five water barriers control levels on the Roer river, behind which the Germans say Gen. Eisenhower has massed 60 to 70 divisions for an imminent offensive toward Cologne and the Ruhr.

Low clouds and rain curtailed flying to a few reconnaissance missions.

The German radio said Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' infantry had entered Schleiden but were expelled. The Americans reached within 28 miles of the Rhine and the city of Bonn.

Just north of the clean Siegfried line break, infantry advanced to the Urft lake within sight of the first of the Roer river dams controlling flood levels on that barrier stream before Cologne.

South in Alsace, the Colmar death pocket fast was becoming just a memory. French and American troops driving into the Cross-Rhine pocket south of Strasbourg moved within eight miles of a junction that would split and dissolve the German front.

Fighting within a mile of Neuf-Brisach, the U. S. corps shelled repeatedly the steel and concrete rail bridge across the Rhine. More than a dozen Alsatian towns including Cernay were taken.

Third Advances a Mile

The U. S. Third Army, fighting six miles inside Germany just south of Hodges' command, advanced a mile and were within three and a half miles of strongly fortified Prum, one of the stoutest Siegfried line defensive points. At points the Third Army was a mile and a half deep in the Siegfried line and within three quarters of a mile of by-passed Brand-schei, key German defense point.

The First Army front, like that of the U. S. 9th Army along the Roer to the north within 20 miles of Cologne, was wholly inside Germany. Hodges' divisions were within 16 miles of the major traffic center of Euskirchen, the capture of which would embarrass German communications between north and south ends of the whole western front.

Pfc. Lewis' wife resides in Abilene, Texas.

Afraid Russia Will Enter War Against Japan

Berlin Warns That May be Result of 'Big Three' Meeting

LONDON, Feb. 5.—(P)—The Berlin radio reported today that there was fear in Tokyo that Russia may enter the war against Japan as a result of the Big Three conference now generally believed to be in session.

"Undoubtedly the problem of the war against Japan is on the agenda of the Big Three," wrote the Japanese commentator of the newspaper Asahi as quoted by the German Transocean agency. "Both Japan and the western powers are asking themselves what is Russia's position regarding the war against Japan since the war against Germany has entered its decisive phase."

"Just as in the war against Germany a decision also must be reached in the war against Japan. For this reason we must keep our attention especially focused on this point today more than ever before."

Quoting German foreign office circles, Transocean said there were indications that the Big Three conference now was in session and was being held on a warship in the Black sea or in a Black Sea port. German radio propaganda has stepped up their campaign for last ditch resistance.

Berlin's Warning

The Berlin radio warned the German people that they could expect from President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin a new appeal "to desert their present leaders" and surrender.

"But this time the Germans will not be taken in by this childish device," the broadcast added. "There is only one slogan—unconditional fighting."

Seeking to stir up German fears of surrender, the Berlin radio quoted an officially inspired article appearing in all German newspapers to the effect that Premier Stalin would demand the services of 4,000,000 Germans to repair war damage in Russia.

"You may be sure the demand will soon be raised to 10,000,000," the article added.

While declaring flatly that the tri-partite talks already were under way, the German radio was vague as to the site of the meeting. One German broadcast quoted "Cairo sources" as saying that some of the talks were "taking place aboard a man of war," but was not specific about the location.

Car Overturns, Three Injured

A 1936 Dodge sedan, owned by Mrs. Ella Jacoby, Warrensburg, and driven by Cpl. E. E. Lewis of the Sedalia Army Air Field, overturned on Highway 50 about a mile and a half east of Knob Noster, shortly after midnight Saturday, and three of the occupants were slightly injured.

In the car with Cpl. Lewis and Mrs. Jacoby were Mrs. Lewis and Sergeant C. L. Farley also of the S.A.A.F. Cpl. Lewis, Mrs. Lewis and Sergeant Farley were taken to the S.A.A.F. base hospital where they were given emergency treatment. Mrs. Jacoby was not injured.

According to a report given State Trooper Lloyd Amos who conducted an investigation, Cpl. Lewis was driving west on Highway 50 and an approaching car appeared to be skidding. Lewis, it was reported pulled to the left going across the highway, down a small ditch and overturned.

Book Review at Meeting

Sedalia War Mothers club, chapter 2, met Friday afternoon at the USO and the feature of the afternoon was an interesting review of the book, "He Who Walks Alone," given by Mrs. A. C. Scott.

Razzle-Dazzling Japs on Luzon

Map above illustrates how Gen. MacArthur's armies split the Japs, sealed them off in four separated segments, while driving full speed ahead for Manila. (1) Japs in Luzon's northern mountains formed threat to rear and left flank of any U. S. forces driving south to Manila. Therefore, from the Lingayen beachhead, Maj. Gen. Innes P. Swift's 1st Corps (6th, 25th, 43d Divisions and 158th Regimental Combat Team) swung north and east to contain enemy in the northern area. (2) Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold's 14th Corps (37th and 40 Divisions) swept south on road to Manila, protecting the right flank with parallel drive down coastal strip west of Zambales Mountains. (3) The 38th Division and a 24th Division Combat team of Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger's new 8th Army landed on the Zambales coast, drove east toward a junction with the Manila-bound 14th Corps. (4) Within 48 hours, another 8th Army landing was effected by the 11th Airborne Division, at Nasugbu, 41 miles southwest of Manila. This put a pincer on the Philippine capital and sealed off Japs in south from coming to the aid of those in the north.

Lt. Com. Webb Dies in Action

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Webb of Windsor, have received word of the death of their son, Lt. Commander Eugene Webb, who was reported killed in action January 15.

Lt. Comdr. Webb graduated from Windsor high school in 1935, attended Central Missouri State Teachers College for two years. He entered Naval Air Corps in 1937 and was stationed at Pearl Harbor at the time of the Japanese attack. Later he was returned to the United States as an instructor in Naval aviation at Corpus Christi, Texas.

Allied officials recently have warned of a revival of enemy submarine warfare but have not confirmed the sinking of this many ships.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson announced on Jan. 25 the "recent" sinking of a U. S. troopship in European waters with 765 men dead and missing. There was no indication whether this was the same ship announced by the Germans.

Freed Nurses Care for Sick

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Feb. 5.—(P)—Sixty-nine nurses of Bataan and Corregidor were freed from captivity and in less than an hour some of them were at a labor of love caring for cavalrymen wounded in the fight which opened by the gate of Santo Tomas.

Looking up at one girl administering first aid, a wounded soldier said: "It was worth all that mud on Leyte and the grind through Luzon to have an honest to goodness nurse looking after me."

And so this first hour of freedom has been an hour of gratitude for these 69 girls from 31 states and the District of Columbia.

Top Priority for Third Army Furlough

WITH THE THIRD ARMY, Feb. 5.—(P)—Top priority in the Third army for 40-day furloughs to the United States has been granted the 5th Infantry, the first American division overseas. The first group is to leave Feb. 7. The second Feb. 13.

Claim They Sank US Convoy

(By The Associated Press)
German U-boats "in grim fighting against enemy supply service" sank 10 supply ships of 67,000 tons, a troop transport of 20,000 tons and three escort vessels in waters around England, the German high command claimed today.

Allied officials recently have warned of a revival of enemy submarine warfare but have not confirmed the sinking of this many ships.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson announced on Jan. 25 the "recent" sinking of a U. S. troopship in European waters with 765 men dead and missing. There was no indication whether this was the same ship announced by the Germans.

Eager to Hear From Manila

Mrs. Charles H. Bard, 209 East Broadway, and Miss Barbara Ann Smith, 405 West Fifth street, have real reason to rejoice that the Yanks have entered Manila and are releasing the civilian prisoners there. Mrs. Bard's sister, Mrs. Philip Carman, the former Miss Edna Mertz, and her husband, Major Carman, retired army officer, are internees, as is Barbara Ann's father, Dewey Smith, who was in business in Manila when the Japs took over.

Major and Mrs. Carman have a daughter, Mrs. William P. Lane, living in Rochester, N. Y. Sunday night Mrs. Lane called her aunt, Mrs. Bard. They are now eagerly awaiting word from the government giving them news of the Carmans. The government's official message of their release will be sent either to Mrs. Lane in New York, or to Mrs. Bard.

The tank commander answered Hayashi's messenger with: "Tell him nothing doing and I'll give him 10 minutes."

The Nipponese officer stood his ground and American troops of the First cavalry division swarmed into the building and began a room to room fight. Some prisoners were feared trapped with the Japanese. (Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced no prisoners or American troops were killed, although several were hurt.)

All Hostages Released

The Japanese held some prisoners as hostages. (There were 270 hostages, all later released.)

Other tanks and dismounted cavalrymen poured into Santo Tomas. Almost 2,500 American prisoners engulfed them with embraces, kisses and handshakes.

Sixty-nine American nurses and army medical technicians—heroines of Bataan and Corregidor, are among those liberated. So are 32 members of the clergy and Dominican faculty of Santo Tomas university whose campus held thousands of captive men, women and children of many nationalities and all creeds.

All night long while the weary cavalrymen cleaned out the garbison, prisoners swarmed about them eager for a word of greeting and a touch of the hand of their countrymen after three years of suffering and the ignominy of captivity.

Behind the cavalrymen came Filipinos with a steadily growing roar of welcome.

Bothwell Hospital Notes

Mrs. Beneta Witham, 1007 West Tenth street and E. W. Dailey, 1806 South Kentucky avenue, admitted for surgery.

American Tank Forces Entrance Into Santo Tomas Prison Camp

By Dean Schedler and Fred Hampson

SANTO TOMAS PRISON CAMP, Manila, Feb. 5.—(P)

A Liberty was a steel tank with a 75-mm gun for a torch and a white star on its tempered flank.

The driver slipped the clutch and Liberty idled before the chained gate of this war prison which held—we prayed—some 3,000 men, women and children of the United Nations.

"Open up," roared the tank commander.

No hand appeared to slip the gate's bolts.

"Open the Goddam thing or I'm coming anyway," the commander shouted. Again the order brought no response.

Inside the prison a low speculative murmur had risen to a crescendo of cries with overtones of fear, and doubt and hope. The prisoners sensed that this was not just another of the inexplicable Japanese orgies. The voice beyond the gate was American and contained a resolution of its own kind. But the gate did not open.

"Go on in," the tank commander directed quietly, "but don't shoot unless you have to. And be sure they're Japs."

The snorting tank pushed against the gate. The engine clattered. The gate groaned, cracked and crashed under the treads.

Cries of Relief

Prisoners, gaunt, hollow-eyed, afraid of their own hopes, poured from the buildings. In the gathering dusk they saw this was an American tank. And as from a single throat they poured out an agonizing cry of relief and thanks and welcome.

There was a pause as if they were still afraid to believe their eyes. The American tank stopped atop the twisted gate of Japanese bondage and slowly the wretched captivity began slipping away from them.

On an upper floor of one of the houses on the campus, a Japanese prison commandant with his Formosan guards were ready for a last fight. The commandant, Colonel Hayashi, offered to surrender the prison in return for a guarantee of safe passage through the gates.

The tank commander answered Hayashi's messenger with: "Tell him nothing doing and I'll give him 10 minutes."

The Nipponese officer stood his ground and American troops of the First cavalry division swarmed into the building and began a room to room fight. Some prisoners were feared trapped with the Japanese. (Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced no prisoners or American troops were killed, although several were hurt.)

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Feb. 5.—The stars and stripes flew over half of Manila today and thousands of American and British civilian prisoners were freed as Yank columns, including a new paratroop regiment landed to the south, pressed against little more than sniper fire toward complete liberation of the Philippine capital.

First cavalry and 37th infantry division, forces controlled the northern part of Manila a few hours after entering the city late Saturday night, and penetrated Sunday as far south as the wide and deep Pasig river, which divides the city.

The first cavalry ranks, in an encircling move by night speared immediately to the Santo Tomas internment camp from the east and liberated about 3,700 civilian prisoners, mainly American women and children, held there since May 1, 1942.

A sharp fight, in which all the Japanese guards were killed, preceded the deliverance of the Santo Tomas internees. Fighting raged from room to room for a time. Soon Americans began evacuating the deliciously happy prisoners.

Seize Palace

First cavalry units also seized Malacanang Palace, former governmental headquarters of the Philippine commonwealth, finding no Japanese officials, while Yanks of the 37th division entered the capital from the north and pushed cautiously through the northern suburbs after capturing Grace Park airfield.

Tokyo radio acknowledged that U. S. forces had entered the capital, and said fierce fighting was in progress around Santo Tomas.

The motorized first cavalry, fighting in memory of their first commander, Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, who was captured by the invading Japanese in early 1942 reached Manila first in a miraculous dash of some 144 miles in a little more than 60 hours, racing down a highway which skirts the central Luzon plain on the east.

Little Resistance

The Japanese offered no major stand in the northern half of Manila, just as they failed to oppose in force Gen. Douglas MacArthur's 120-mile push down the broad central Luzon plain from the Lingayen gulf beachhead established just 26 days before.

This advance was coordinated with invasions along the west coast northwest and southwest of Manila last week.

Nipponese troops also took just 26 days to enter the city from their beachheads to the southwest at the start of the war, but at that time Manila was declared an open city a week before the enemy stepped in.

MacArthur, returning triumphantly to Manila—prime goal of his three-year Pacific campaign—was pelted by a dynamited bridge from entering the city with one of the first spearheads. He turned back to find another route.

The northern section of Manila was taken fairly intact, wrote Associated Press Correspondent Ferd Hampson.

"A few buildings were smashed and burned," he said, "but on the whole that part of Manila was not greatly damaged. However, off in the distance we could see huge fires and columns of smoke. The dock area was burning fiercely."

Merry-Go-Round

by DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 — It is not often that the Democratic membership of the senate holds an all-out caucus, but when it does, the sparks really fly and the issue usually gets down to the roots of what makes or breaks the Democratic party — rivalry between the conservative wing and the more progressive north.

That issue split the Democratic party wide open in the 1928 race between Al Smith and Herbert Hoover. Since then Franklin Roosevelt has been able to keep the two wings of the party together—at least at election time. But the crevice has been growing wider and wider between elections.

Last week's closed door caucus over Henry Wallace involved the same basic principle, with the reactionary wing of the party wanting to join with the Republicans to defeat the liberal wing.

Senator Hatch of Arizona probably summarized the issue more succinctly than anyone else when in the secret hearing he said:

"What we are doing is helping the Republicans. They're adopting Jack Garner's old technique of stealing votes away from the other side in order to win. The Republicans are now stealing votes from us in order to put us in the hole. That's not the kind of party teamwork I intend to support."

Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, majority leader, who sometimes — as on taxes — has sided with the reactionary wing of the party, this time was strongly on the liberal side. Returning from a minor eye operation at the naval hospital the day before, Barkley rose with a patch over his eye and said:

"I have been in favor of the principle embodied in the George bill divorcing the commerce department from the loan agencies for a long time. I was opposed not only to the act which permitted Jesse Jones to take two jobs, but I was very strongly against giving the vice president, Mr. Wallace, additional duties during the past several years. I am glad to see that Mr. Wallace finally came around to the same way of thinking and that Mr. Truman has publicly said he wants only one job — and that the job of being vice president is enough for any one man."

Mead Defends Wallace

The speech which Wallace delivered in New York before the union of Democratic action came in for some stiff criticism from Tennessee's bellicose Senator McKellar and also illustrates the basic difference inside the party.

This brought a quick defense from Senator Mead of New York, who quietly but convincingly pointed out that Wallace had meant to do just the opposite.

"We already have a third party in New York," Senator Mead said. "That's where Wallace was speaking and he was trying to head off further split within the party."

In New York we have to face the fact that the Democratic party already is in a minority when the third party chooses to go against us. Wallace had that in mind when he spoke in New York and his remarks should be very helpful."

Leader of the anti-Wallace reactionaries was the sanctimonious-sounding Senator Josiah Bailey of North Carolina who told his colleagues:

"I'm against Wallace and everything he stands for. I'm against his philosophy. I'm against his principles. I'm against everything about him. If we vote him into office he'll put the nation into bankruptcy."

Bailey made it clear that he would join with the Republicans in trying to bring Wallace's name up for a vote as both secretary of commerce and federal loan administrator, in which case everyone knew he was sure to be defeated. (Bailey carried out his promise a few minutes later on the floor of the senate but was defeated by one vote.)

Southern Democrats Divided

By no means did all the southern wing side with Bailey against Wallace, however. Energetic and young Senator Russell of Georgia made a straight-from-the-shoulder statement that he believed the president had a right to appoint his own secretary of commerce and he would vote for Wallace as such, as long as the commerce department was divorced from the loan agencies.

"I'm not for splitting open the Democratic party," Russell said, despite the fact that his senior colleague from Georgia is one of Wallace's bitterest opponents.

Senator Overton of Louisiana also was forthright in his defense of Wallace as long as the two jobs were separated.

"I was against the third term and I strongly opposed the fourth term for President Roosevelt," Overton said. "At this point, however, he is about to begin a conference of tremendous importance to the future peace of the world, and I think it imperative that the United States do nothing to indicate to the world that it has anything but the greatest confidence in the president."

Fair-minded Senator McFarland of Arizona also rose to call for complete support for the president. "If this senate turns down the president's choice for his cabinet," the slow-spoken Arizonan said, "it will be a deed which the Japs will exploit over. Our action will be used on the Jap radio to indicate there is discord in the United States government."

Judicious Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming echoed the same sentiments.

"For the senate of the United States to refuse to confirm a presidential appointment on the eve of a great international conference may be a serious blow to the president's prestige, if not to the peace of the world," O'Mahoney warned.

There was no question, however, as to where younger members of the senate stood. Young Warren Magnuson of Washington, recently elected, made this clear toward the end of the closed caucus.

"As far as we younger members of the senate are concerned," he said, "we are for Wallace."

Later when the matter came up for vote, the senate youngsters stuck by Magnuson's pledge 100 per cent with the exception of 68-year-old Senator Clyde Hoxey of North Carolina, who replaced Senator Bob Reynolds and whose vote made it clear he was against the right of the president to appoint his own cabinet.

Under the Dome

During the closed door sessions of the senate commerce committee, GOP senators Brewster of Maine and Burton of Ohio wanted to keep Wallace's name in committee until the George bill was voted, saying that if the George bill were passed, they would OK Wallace as secretary of commerce. Some of Wallace's friends didn't believe them. But when it came to a vote, Brewster and Burton stuck to their word. . . . New England Republicans generally followed the policy of letting the president pick his own cabinet. Austin and Aiken of Vermont plus

FOUR YOUNG MEN IN THE GOLD RUSH

ON June 7 they reached Fort Laramie and stayed there resting for two days. The place around the fort was white with tents and wagons. The epidemic of cholera that had begun along the Mississippi during the spring of that year had reached this point in Wyoming. About a dozen cases were reported at Laramie when the Cullen train arrived.

John Cullen set up his camp for the 15 wagons about half a mile from the main body of emigrants. Then he visited each wagon and gave positive orders that no water was to be drunk until it had been boiled, and all food of every description was to be wrapped in cloth until people were ready to eat it.

No one in the train was sick, but Andy Gordon records the relief they all felt when they got away from Laramie. They had remained there two days to have some repairs made to three of the wagons.

June 12. As the trail gets rougher we encounter piles of things that people have thrown away to lighten their loads. This was a day of scenes of abandoned property: stoves, blacksmith tools, mattresses, cooking utensils, and provisions of every kind strung along the road. There was also an abandoned wagon with broken axles.

We have been seeing dead animals from the first day, but today we saw three dead mules and an ox lying by the side of the road.

Out of a spirit of malice those who had to abandon provisions often rendered them useless. Sugar had turpentine poured over it; flour was scattered over the ground, and clothes were torn to pieces. Here and there, as an exception, foodstuffs were left in good order with a message fastened on the pile telling the finder to help himself. News for the public was sometimes attached to boards and up in a prominent place. On such message read: "The water here is poison, and we have lost six cattle. Do not let your cattle drink from this creek."

AT Pocatello in Idaho—on July 6—the trail turned to the southwest. The day after the caravan entered Nevada. Besides the Cullen procession of 15 wagons there were four other trains. Together 47 wagons in all. In Gordon's little girl, one of the three Jackson children who were going across with our parents, Gordon wrote, "A grave was dug by the side of the trail and Plunkett painted a name and the date of her death on a board which was set up. Her grave was buried with no more ceremony than a prayer by Mr. Cullen. I shall never forgive her mother."

Face was looked back from the next rise and saw a lonely little grave on the prairie."

Occasionally they encountered bands of Indians. Sometimes the changed small tribes of Indian trinkets. Every night they took precautions, however, against an Indian attack by forming a circle of all the wagons, more than 40 of them, with the people in the center. In his enclosure, there was not enough room for the cattle, and they were tied outside the square in a corral formed of ropes. Six men were detailed each night to guard the wagons and the cattle. The cattle were in some danger from wolves, but when they appeared the guards always drove them off by firing a few shots.

THE outfit, by following the Wyoming-Idaho route, avoided most of the desert lands, but there was no way to get around the Humboldt Desert of Nevada, which runs from Winnemucca southwest nearly to Carson City. They reached the northern edge of it on August 12.

August 20. I hardly know whether I am alive or dead. All day in a blazing heat, with the air so hot that in moving my hand through the air I feel as if I were thrusting it into the hot air over a bed of coals. The oxen stagger along, with their tongues hanging out. I mean our oxen do, but the beasts of some of the other wagons have simply laid down to die. In such cases we cannot wait; we cut them from their traces and leave them lying there.

Our barrel of water helps. The river water can be drunk when it is flowing in small quantities—but it is dangerous (I may say deadly) after it stands awhile. Why? I pour down the throats of the cattle when they show signs of being alkali-d; it does help.

It is difficult to make much progress in the deep, soft sand. It is like fine dust. The cattle are in it up to their knees and we are constantly called on to put our shoulders to the wheel and help pull the wagons out. But not for our own shaking, for our cattle are alkali-d; it does help.

The Cullen train of 15 wagons, through the desert all right, with a loss of only one man, six oxen and a mule.

Th rain ran through Carson and Utah Lake Tahoe. After two days rest at Laramie on the Carson River they began the mountainous ascent leading to the pass across the Sierra Nevada. There was a feeling of gaiety in the expedition, with a great deal of shouting and laughter. They were wearing the end of their long trail, though the road up to the pass was incredibly bad.

Eventually they reached the top, more than 9000 feet above the level of the sea. They could see for many miles and the whole green world of California lay before them. The members of the expedition gathered and stood awhile in silence, staring across the land. Then a spontaneous cheer arose; it rang and echoed among the mountains. "California, here we come!"

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

John Ritchey Ends His Life By Hanging

Found Dead in Saline County Jail Sunday Night

John Ritchey, 48 years old, brother of Henry S. Ritchey, 129 East Walnut street, ended his life about 7 o'clock Sunday night in the Saline county jail by hanging himself in his cell. Ritchey had been picked up by Sheriff L. M. Jacobs on a technical charge and was held for investigation.

Sheriff Jacobs said he had talked with Ritchey for a short time before putting him in jail and at that time he appeared to be in good spirits and far from being moody. There was another man in the cell block where he was placed who was lying on his bunk reading.

The sheriff quoted the other prisoner as saying he heard Ritchey moving around and heard him coughing or choking and didn't think much about it as he thought maybe he was just sick. When he didn't hear Ritchey stirring around further he happened to glance around and saw him hanging.

He had used a piece of a wire clothes line which the prisoners have to hang their clothes upon after washing.

Inquest Today
The body was taken to the Campbell-Lewis funeral home in Marshall. An inquest will be held today the sheriff indicated.

Surviving are his brother here in Sedalia and a sister Mrs. Sarah Smith of near Nelson.

Mr. Ritchey was born near Nelson and was reared in that community. For a number of years he worked on farms and as a laborer in the Marshall community and around Marshall Junction.

He was the son of the late W. W. Ritchey and Catherine Sue Ritchey of Nelson.

She was picked up by Raymond Fettes, sanitary officer. Fettes said he had received several complaints on her conduct.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(AP)—High lights of the baseball writers' show was Branch Rickey (impersonated) by Arthur Mann) using lollypops to entice a small boy to sign a contract on that the same time singing: "Would you like to swing as a star in the Brooklyn Dodger bazaar?" ... Maybe that isn't as funny as it sounded. ... When the National league failed to finish its Saturday meeting on time, it was ousted from the room and who do you think took over? The amateur softball association. ... Lefty Gomez claims the reason the Yankees were sold at such a bargain was that the former owners heard Gomez was thinking about a comeback and wanted to escape that fate.

Sample of the track season: In three important races at the Millrose meet starter Jack Lavelle had to waste cartridges firing recall shots because kids who weren't used to board track running fell soon after the start. ... ## Japanese Leaders Said Loss of Luzon Meant Loss of the War

By The Associated Press

The American flag flies once more over Manila, replacing the Japanese sun banner raised over the city Jan. 2, 1942, and ending a marathon campaign unequalled in military history.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said "I will return," that bitter March day in 1942 when a U. S. submarine brought him to Australia from a crumbling Corregidor in Manila bay.

A mighty army, navy and air force team made this promise come true.

The Japanese landed on the Luzon island north coast Dec. 10, 1941, to start the invasion that took Manila and later hammered the weakened American-Filipino army into submission on Bataan and Corregidor.

It was only a 250-mile jump for the Nipponese, from Formosa to the Luzon north coast, and not much farther, as far as the Pacific war distances go, to make their other landings on the west and south coasts of Luzon.

Americans Travel Farther

The Americans traveled 10 to 20 times farther in their comeback.

It is 2,600 miles from the Papan peninsula, New Guinea, where the Yanks and the Australians turned back the Japanese threat, to Port Moresby, doorway to Australia and farthest south penetration of the Nipponese army.

Once stopped outside Port Moresby, the Japanese began a reluctant retreat Sept. 26, 1942. The Yanks were on their way back to Manila, via the Solomons, the Admiralties, Dutch New Guinea and the Moluccas.

The Pearl Harbor and Manila stretch was twice as long—5,350 miles. The bloody path started at Tarawa in the Gilberts, Nov. 21, 1943, and took the Americans through other Japanese island bastions in the Marshalls, the Palau and the Marianas.

Meanwhile, U. S. fleets, task forces and airmen whittled down the Japanese sea power in the battles of the Coral Sea, Midway, Bismarck sea and the first and second battles of the Philippines sea.

Threat Removed in Aleutians
The Nipponese threat to the continental United States was removed in the Aleutians, with the destruction of enemy forces on Attu in May, 1943.

While the Americans were closing in on Manila, the Japanese at home heard the crash of bombs delivered with increasing frequency by Superfortresses based on newly-won Saipan.

Using their home folk to produce more and more planes and guns, Japanese leaders said the loss of Luzon would mean for Nippon the loss of the war.

Their warnings were emphasized by aims of the Third U. S. fleet who roamed the south China sea, rubbing out Japanese war and merchant shipping and shored installations from Indo-China to Formosa and the Chinese coast, sometimes less than 200 miles from Japan.

This wasn't the kind of war planned by the Japanese militarists, who never got any closer to the United States than Pearl Harbor.

Court Sets Civil Docket For February

The February term of circuit court, civil division, was opened this morning with twenty-five cases on the docket as damage suits against the Union Electric Company of Missouri; seventy-three divorce suits, five damage suits against the Missouri Pacific railroad; one against the Alton railroad; one against the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad and eight other damage suits.

There were a total of sixty-three jury cases and eighty-seven equity cases. There are seven divorces filed too late to be placed in the printed docket and one damage suit.

Five divorce cases were dropped from the court docket upon the request of the plaintiffs in each case.

Seven of the twenty-five cases against the Union Electric Co. were set for trial on March 22. In those cases the court gave the defendant fifteen days to enter an answer. No disposition was made of the other eighteen cases against the company.

The suits are all for damages to crops or property caused by the high waters of the Lake of the Ozarks a year ago, during the flood season when the lake reached almost a record high in flood waters.

Divorces dropped from the docket are: Emma Agnes Hanning against Will H. Hanning; Opal E. McCallen against Forrest L. McCallen; Jessie Crawford against Bradley Crawford; Matilda Louise Anderson against John L. Anderson; Ruby P. Thomas against Herbert H. Thomas.

Judge Dimmitt Hoffman presided over the setting of the docket this morning.

Are You Embarrassed By HOT FLASHES?

If you, like so many women, between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, nervous tension, irritability, are a bit blue at times—all due to the functional middle age period peculiar to women—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms.

For almost a century thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor alike—have reported remarkable benefits. Many wise women take Pinkham's Compound regularly to help build up resistance against such annoying distress.

Lydia Pinkham's Compound helps nature. It also has what Doctors call a stomachic tonic effect. Follow label directions. Worth trying!

Beef Cattle Herds Should Be in Shape

Unprofitable Animals Should Be Disposed of

Beef cattle raisers who put their herds in shape now will be in best position to take advantage of a good market in the future, or to weather periods of adverse markets if we have such periods, points out E. A. Trowbridge of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture.

Two of the major factors affecting the profit from herds of beef cows are the percentage calf crop, and the quality of the cattle produced. It is obviously unprofitable to keep an aged or even mature beef cow if she fails to produce a calf regularly, and nearly as futile to keep any cow that produces a calf of poorer type than she is herself.

Cows are now quoted on the market at $6 to $12 per hundred-weight, good average beef cows bringing from $70 to $100 per head. Cows that have not calved and are now empty stand a chance of being in better condition to market than the regular breeding cows and frequently bring the rise of $100. Inferior cows that are thin now may go through the winter on good roughages and freshen up to salable condition on grass in the spring. Little or no profit can be expected from keeping them and they will bring all they are worth if sold.

Better Sell Animals

Such animals had better be sold and bred yearling or two-year-old heifers kept in their places. Such heifers not only produce a calf, but they will grow and add weight and increase in value. If these bred heifers are not available it will pay in many cases to keep good heifer calves. They have a lifetime before them. While they may make the calf crop a little short next year, be-

Writes Story Of Soybeans

In order to encourage other people to plant edible varieties of soybeans this year, Emily Banning, a 4-H member of the Maplewood club who grew soybeans in her 4-H garden last year, has written a story of her last year's results. She writes, "We planted in the late spring (about May 1) one pound of edible soybeans. The variety was Bansei. We planted two rows approximately 120 feet long. I think they were very prolific as we raised about 45 pounds of shelled beans which matured in September. We cut the vines off and put them in sacks because they were starting to shell out. Then we pulled the pods off the vines and when the weather got colder, we brought them in the house and shelled them. We have raised more of these dried soybeans than any other dried beans this year so they have played an important part in our diet. Their high protein content makes them a valuable food. To prepare them for cooking, we soak them overnight and then simmer them till tender. Because of their high protein, they never cook up mushy like navy beans. They are sufficiently cooked in the same length of time as other dry beans though. We like them best as chili or baked beans. Lots of people make meat loaf or other meat substitute dishes of them."

Miss Dorothy Bacon, home demonstration agent, says, "because of the high food value and the productivity which Emily has mentioned, others should be encouraged to plant edible soybeans this year. They are good green as well as dry. Bansei mature in about 100 days, and Willom, Imperial, and Aoda all take longer."

If these bred heifers are not available it will pay in many cases to keep good heifer calves. They have a lifetime before them. While they may make the calf crop a little short next year, because it will be 10 months before they will bring calves, that shortage will come at a time when some reduction in beef cattle stock seems indicated. If it is not desirable to reduce the calf crop, then a few bred heifers might be added in place of the old non-productive cows that are sold.

If new animals are added, particular care should be taken to see that they are not diseased. It would be a serious mistake to introduce cattle affected with abortion, tuberculosis, or other disease into a clean herd. In fact, this is a good time to test cattle for both abortion and tuberculosis and clean up the herd.

What's the matter with the other Haystack?

CATTLE are smart critters, as any livestock man knows. They'll even show you whether your land is properly fertilized!

That cattle can give you the answer to this question has been proved by an experiment reported by Dr. Wm. A. Albrecht of the University of Missouri, which is illustrated here. The cattle were turned loose in a field in which there were two stacks of hay. The grasses were the same species; the curing was the same; they looked and smelled the same. But the cattle ate one stack and never touched the other.

The hay from the stacks was analyzed in a laboratory. Then it was discovered that the stack the cattle liked contained much more calcium and phosphorus—two minerals cattle must have for good health. The good hay came from soil that had been treated with lime and phosphate. . . the poor hay from untreated land.

Minerals essential to both human and animal health come from the soil, are absorbed into plants and get into the bodies of grazing animals. Human beings, of course, get their supply of minerals from plant foods like fruits, vegetables and cereals, and from foods of animal origin like meats, fish and eggs.

Better soil produces better food, better livestock and healthier people.

"The pig that pays" is the "extra" one that lives in an average litter. Baby pig death losses of from 30 to 50 per cent are far too high. They can be greatly reduced.

Cleanliness is the first rule of profitable hog raising. Dirt breeds disease and parasites, so it pays to move young pigs to clean pastures and to keep them away from old pens and yards. Old dry bedding has been known to start dust-pneumonia. Cholera and erysipelas can be prevented by early vaccination, and transfer of diseases from newly purchased hogs can be controlled by a period of isolation.

Observe common-sense rules and your pigs will live and grow. Feed them well and when your hogs are ready, you'll get your "profit" from the extra ones raised in each litter.

Martha Logan's recipe for GEORGE WASHINGTON CHERRY PIE

Make pastry using Swift's Bland Lard for shortening to insure flakiness. Roll out and line one-inch-deep pie pan.

The filling is made as follows: 3 cups canned cherries; 1 cup sugar; 2 tbs. flour or corn starch; 1 tbs. butter. Combine cherries and dry ingredients and fill pie pan level. Cover with pastry—full crust or lattice of strips. Bake at 425°F. for 10 minutes, then at 350°F. for 35 minutes longer.

"What Do You Know?" answers:

1) 48; 2) turkeys and llamas; 3) 1050 miles.

THE EDITOR'S COLUMN

So many important things are happening in the livestock and meat business that it is difficult for an editor to decide which to write about and which to leave out.

Few people realize how much beef, pork, lamb and veal must be set aside by meat packers operating under federal inspection for the armed forces and Lend-Lease. As of January 7, 1945, 50% of all utility steers, heifers, and cows are set aside for the government canning program. The government will continue to call for 60% of the choice, good, and commercial steer and heifer beef carcasses, excepting extremely light weights; also 50% of the cutter and canner beef. Of the total pork meat produced, excluding lard, approximately 50% has to be set aside. Government priorities on "Good" and "Choice" lambs have averaged from 40 to 50% of the suitable lambs. Priority orders also apply to approximately 50% of the "Choice," "Good," and "Commercial" veal produced within specifications.

Of course, such regulations are necessary in order to insure the proper conduct and winning of the war. Nevertheless, producers and consumers should know of these regulations as a partial explanation of why they are having difficulty in getting the supplies of beef, lamb, pork and veal which they want.

Kansas and Iowa State
Meet Tigers

Tigers Don't Expect
Too Much Hospitality
From Either Team

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 5.—(P)—A band of Missourians, while not counting too heavily on Kansas and Iowa hospitality, hopes to finish this week in position to make a good run for the wire in the Big Six basketball race.

Already twice beaten, the Tigers must move up now or they'll be out of the drive down the stretch.
Handicapped by the mid-year graduation of their classy veteran guard and captain, Paul Collins,
the Tigers tuned up Saturday with a revamped lineup that functioned well to hand Nebraska its sixth straight loss.

Freshman center Ed Mickelson, shifted to forward, turned in a good job with 11 points. He displaced Gene Kurash, who filled in at the departed Collins' post at guard.

Picked by some Big Six coaches
as the pre-season favorite, the Tigers have played in and out ball.
Louis Menze, whose Iowa State
five faces Missouri Friday, insists
the Bengals may yet finish on top.

"The loss of Collins hurt them
but they still have a lot of potential talent," opines Menze. He has reason to feel that way. His Cycles, who did the front running early this season, took a drubbing from Missouri at Columbia recently.

Another in-and-out, Kansas State, is the Tigers' opponent tonight at Manhattan. The Wildcats scored 61 points Saturday against Washburn and sank 70 in their rout of Nebraska recently.

Oklahoma comes back to the conference was Saturday against the same Wildcats, after a week
of play against the home state rivals.

Kansas, tied for the lead with Oklahoma, did a competent job taming the K-State Wildcat at Lawrence last week. The Jayhawkers go to Lincoln Saturday night to tussle Nebraska.

came to America in April, 1819.

A Valentine party concluded the meeting. Mrs. Maud Wells was winner of the candy hunt, Mrs.
Edith Barnes and Miss Emma Jean Harbit tied for first place in the tree-naming contest and Mrs.

Still Found in

tion of the first still discovered in the St. Louis area since 1939 was reported Saturday by the federal with 12 mash vats with a total capacity of 2,400 gallons, the still was found on a farm near St.

Claire, Mo., and kept under surveillance since last September.

Finds Plant Making
Army Clothing, Needed
Civilian Garments

To help speed up production of critical supply items needed by the army, Lt. Gerald Levin of the Philadelphia Quartermaster depot
came to Sedalia to visit manufacturing plants here and offer his assistance to army contractors in the vicinity.

Lt. Levin's visit is in conjunction with the policy adopted by the Quartermaster Corps of sending expeditors throughout the country to visit war plants, assist in personnel problems, combat absenteeism and do everything possible to increase the production of the needed war materials.

All fighting field commanders
have expressed their deep interest in the current army supply program. They all feel that the war is driving towards a series of crucial stages and that the continuous and uninterrupted flow of supplies is a most vital adjunct to future victories.

Army commanders have repeatedly stated that clothing is very vital to the soldier's health, his fighting ability and his comfort.
Disease from exposure is as deadly
as bullets.

Lt. Gerald Levin recently visited the J. A. Lamy Mfg. Co. of this city, now engaged in manufacturing war repellent field trousers, herringbone twill jackets and one-piece suits or coveralls, for the U. S. army. In a visit through the plant, he found the factory was producing not only vitally needed army clothing, but was producing essential work clothing for farmers and war workers and children's clothing.

Inspected Stocks
During the tour of the factory,
Miss Eleanor Lueck, the supervising forelady, pointed out to the lieutenant the stocks of material ready to be manufactured into clothing that the army needs so much at this time. The lieutenant noticed several idle sewing machines and upon questioning Miss Lueck was advised they were idle
only because of lack of workers.
The increase in the amount of production needed by the army has not been met by the number of new employees necessary.

Lieutenant Levin stated that it seemed a shame that some sewing machines are idle due to the lack of workers when such vital and critical items of clothing are needed by the army at this time.
The lieutenant spoke with several of the employees in the plant and found that approximately 75 per cent had sons, husbands, or brothers in the service and all expressed the thought that they were doing all they could to back up their sons, husbands, and brothers and all the rest of our fighting forces by working in a factory that is producing vital types of clothing.

The lieutenant stated that all workers he interviewed wore a cheerful smile and had a deep feeling of pride in the essential work they were doing. They all expressed the hope that women like themselves would soon be operating the now idle sewing machines.

Pay Off Farm Loans

loans totaling $1,722,000 were paid

president of the Production Credit Corporation of St. Louis. He said that farmers had loans amounting to $7,113,000 at the end of 1944
compared to $8,885,000 in 1943.

Optimism of Baseball for
This Season

Washington Friendly
To Wartime Baseball
Says Col. MacPhail

By Joe Reichler
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(P)—Optimism for the continuance of baseball was the keynote of the three-day session of the major leagues which ended yesterday with the annual dinner of the New York chapter of the Baseball
Writers' Association of America.

Byrnes Will Recognize It
Perhaps the most heartening
news heard by the 1,200 baseball
people consisting of club owners, league officials, writers and fans
who jammed the Hotel Astor ball room was Col. Larry MacPhail's statement that James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, would come to recognize the value of wartime baseball.

"I have been with Undersecretary of War Patterson for 2½ years," said the head of the syndicate that recently bought the New York Yankees. "I know he thinks that expenditures of manpower and transportation for baseball are worthwhile. I think Mr. Byrnes will come to that same decision."

"From my own experience, I know that Washington is friendly to baseball," MacPhail continued.
"They realize the contribution that baseball has given to war relief.
Although baseball is listed as non-essential, I don't think anyone in his right mind thinks baseball
should stop."

Game Contributes Much
"The game has contributed to relief from strain and worry to over 100,000,000 persons; radio broadcasts of the game have contributed to the enjoyment and pleasure of thousands of shut-ins and war casualties; films of the games have been shown in all theaters of war. In addition over 5,000,000 servicemen and 2,000-000 kids have been admitted free and over 800 games have been played with proceeds donated to war relief."

Other speakers included James
Farley, former postmaster general;
Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, Brig. General Caleb V. Haynes of the army air forces, Elmer Davis, head of the OWI and Quentin Reynolds, former sports writer and war correspondent. All spoke glowingly of the fine work baseball had done to help the war effort.

The writers presented the player of the year plaque to Dixie Walker of the Brooklyn Dodgers,
the Bill Slocum Memorial award
for meritorious service over a period of years to Bill McKechnie,
manager of the Cincinnati Reds,
and a tribute in song to the late Commissioner Landis.

Took Part in 4 Campaigns

Lieutenant Preston W. McDaniel,
U.S.N.R., of Route One, Versailles, Mo., has returned from a tour of combat duty in the Pacific,
where he served with the Navy's Patrol Bombing Squadron Sixteen.
The squadron participated in campaigns at Saipan, Tinian, Guam and Palau, backing up our assault forces.

Lieutenant McDaniel commanded a Martin Mariner flying boat (PBM), winging lengthy patrols over enemy waters. During a tropical typhoon he and his crew fought extremely adverse conditions to get the big plane in the air and weathered the storm without damage or loss.

Police Have New Car
The Sedalia Police department has placed in service a new 1942
Chevrolet coach, replacing the old 1941 coach which had been in service about three years. The new car has been equipped with a two-way radio set and will be used in city patrol work.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 5.—(P)—The Missouri State Federation of Labor and its affiliated unions and councils have been asked to give favorable consideration to the proposed new Missouri Constitution at the Feb. 27 special election.

The request was made in letters to labor groups by two officials of the State Federation, President Reuben T. Wood, of Springfield, and Secretary-Treasurer Frank J. Murphy, Kansas City, the Missouri committee for the constitution reported.

The committee stated the railway brotherhoods and CIO groups also have endorsed the proposed new charter.

H. Roe Bartle, Kansas City, director of the American War Dads, issued an appeal to Missouri members to support the document, stating "the modernizing, improving and energizing our governmental structure is all important,"
the committee announced.
